Scientific Centrepieces for Wedding Couple

Newcastle University technicians tie the knot with a little help from Scientific Lab Supplies. When enthusiastic science technicians, Anthony from Department of Dental Materials and Nicola, from ICM, were planning their wedding they knew a fitting centrepiece for their wedding breakfast tables would be a selection of scientific glassware to hold flowers.

This is where SLS Territory Sales Manager – Keith Robinson came to their aid and supplied volumetric flasks, beakers and conical flasks free of charge for this very special occasion.

Mr & Mrs Townshend were really pleased with the donation and commented that it helped to make their day more personal to them.

Keith commented 'It is probably one of the most unusual requests I've had for glassware in my time working as a Sales Manager for SLS, but certainly a joy to be able to help Anthony and Nicola out for their special day".