

Scientific Laboratory Supplies Makes Finding the Right Product Simple

SLS is the UK's largest independent supplier of laboratory equipment, consumables and chemicals. Now, with the launch of a host of new web site features it is even easier to find the products amongst the extensive range of products and manufacturer brands featured on the SLS web site.

With the enhanced web search functionality it is now possible to filter searches by manufacturer brand, product category or a combination of both. Product categories are multi-level, allowing the user to drill down through the product hierarchy to select the most relevant products. Alternatively, rather than search for a specific product there is the ability to browse products by brand or multi-level product category description and discover the options available. Furthermore, it is now possible to re-order a search or browse results according to List Price, Product Code or Product Description. Finding the right product has never been easier!

And if that's not enough, SLS has improved its online E-Catalogue with add to basket functionality. Now it is possible to browse or search the digital version of the SLS Industry Catalogue and build a basket of goods for ordering via the web shop.