When it comes to growing healthy, viable cells in extended microplate cultures, evaporation is a pressing issue that researchers are commonly faced with. In order to mitigate the damages caused by evaporation, notably among the highly vulnerable perimeter wells, researchers typically leave the outer wells in a standard 96-well plate empty ultimately sacrificing 37.5% of each plate. With the Thermo Scientific™ Nunc™ Edge 2.0 Plate, this work-around strategy is no longer necessary.

- Edge plate reduces edge effect for full plate results
- Reclaim full-use of your 96-well plate
- Maintain cell viability and consistency across all 96 wells of your plate.
- Particularly suited to long term assays where evaporation is an issue
- Reduces overall plate evaporation to <2%, yielding consistent, viable cells across the entire 96 well plate
- Using all 96 wells reduces waste
- Simple to use, just add 1.7mL of liquid to each quadrant in the outer reservoir
